RANDY RECOMMENDS...

More Book and Movie Recommendations by Randy Malloy

We have watched so many movies in the past 3-4 months that it is difficult to single out any one. however, here are a few i liked in the recent past:

“The Independents”: a sweet tribute to the many insanely talented musicians out there who have never had a chance to improve their financial situation by being rewarded for their talent, mostly because of the lack of a lucky break. A weird little film that is funny and entertaining.

“Trespassing Bergman” docudrama about prominent film people (Coppola, Landis, Dinero, Craven, Allen, etc.) who visit Bergman’s home on a secluded island 80 miles off the coast of Denmark. I enjoyed it, Indra thought it was boring and pretentious.

“Judas and the Black Messiah”: a searing commentary on the civil rights struggle of the 60’s and 70’s with a killer ending.

Brittany Runs a Marathon”: a little film about body image, friendship, coming back from adversity, and recovery.

“Nomad Land”: a searing pseudo documentary about a group of people who “ are not homeless, we just don’t have a house.” Great Oscar worthy performance by Francis McDormand.

One of our all-time best fans of the Chorale Sarita Head is in Anchor Lodge recovering from a severe burn accident.

“Promising Young Woman”: McDormand’s competition from Kerry Mulligan for the Oscar: ultimate revenge flick.

“Malcom and Marie”: a “must see” for any married couple who thinks they are the only ones who can stay up all night arguing about topics insignificant and relationship breaking. Men should check their male egos at the door.

I am also in the middle of reading the sci-fi trilogy from Cixin Liu “The Three Body Problem”: a fascinating but complicated tome about the future invasion of earth by an alien civilization. Very involved reading!

Indra says she will submit her list in a few days. Or weeks. Or months.

One more book: “Quiet on her Bones” a murder mystery set in New Zealand about the discovery of the narrator’s mother’s body who disappeared ten years in the past.

One more movie that is a must see: “Another Round” a danish film about four high school teachers who decide to test a theory that humans are naturally about .05% alcohol deficient. to test the theory, they drink all during the day, stopping at 8:00 pm. you can guess the rest. do not, under any circumstance, miss the final 15 minutes of this film. a real gem.o my eternal shame, the night we watched this movie, i woke indra at 3:00 am just so i could rewatch the final 15 minutes, not only once, but TWICE.

If you don't send, we can't print...be bold
